

The only changes that should be considered are to make the restrictions on these calls and faxes even tougher. Example - they now use the ruse of surveys to get you to answer. Have surveys comply with do not call rules. Same with companies we do business with (the phone company is the greatest pain) - they should also have to comply with do not call lists. Same with charities - so many that call are scams anyway that they too should have to comply with do not call lists. Again, make the rules tougher, not softer.
